

90th Birthday Celebration

4-7-04

Duke (Dermont) Casper

Duke (Dermont) Casper, a lifelong resident of Wasatch County, will be celebrating his 90th birthday April 13. He was born in Charleston in 1914.

After a decades long interim, he returned to his parent's land to spend his last years. Duke's history is firmly rooted in Heber Valley. His great-grandfather, William Wallace Casper, was in the Mormon Battalion and arrived in Salt Lake City in 1845.

His grandfather, James Moroni Casper, was one of the first settlers of Charleston. His other great-grandfather, James Bean, was one of the first settlers of Provo, arriving in 1849.

Duke is the oldest resident of Charleston, and the last surviving sibling of nine children. He spent his childhood working in the fields of Charleston, boarding with local dairy farmers earning money to contribute to his family. He graduated Wasatch High School and served in World War II.

He landed at Omaha Beach-head at Normandy, and served as a Forward Scout across the European Theatre. His last battle was the Battle of the Bulge; he has received many decorations for his service to his country.

Duke married Colleen Boulden Nov. 7, 1945, and together they raised six children. He retired from the United Park City Mines Company and devoted his time to his first love, ranching. Until his health no longer allowed, he was active in his community, serving as water master for Charleston for many years. He worked for the Utah Cattleman's Association after leaving the mines and loved riding in the mountains and desert.

Although 90 years old, his spirit and thirst for life remain an inspiration to his children and numerous grand- and great-grandchildren.

A birthday celebration is planned, and his family expects, as always, he will be the life of the party.

Tyson Clyde

Can you believe I am already one? We celebrated March 3, it was lots of fun! I ate chocolate cake and opened presents, too. With grandmas, uncles and cousins, there was lots to do! I like to go to the park and play with my ball, but when it comes to walking, I still kinda fall. Mama, Dadda, uh-oh and bye, bye is all that I say. It's great to be one, and I learn more day by day!

My proud parents are Travis and Jessica Clyde. Grandparents are Mike and Ellen Smith and J.L. and Dawnette Clyde.
